We invite you to partner with us in creating a transformational gathering that strengthens women's identities, cultivates a sense of belonging, and inspires women to step into who they are called to be. Through intentional sessions, thoughtful design, and authentic community, this experience equips women to reconnect with their purpose and live with renewed clarity and confidence.

Our Mission

The Symphony of Women exists to motivate and inspire women to pick up the instrument they have been given by God and learn to play it at the highest level. The Heart Behind Take Your Place

Sally Mulready

Founder, Symphony of Women
Keynote Speaker

Sally Mulready is a local real estate professional with a passion that extends far beyond helping people buy and sell homes. For Sally, home has always been about more than a place, it is where faith is nurtured, families are strengthened, and lives are transformed.

For more than sixteen years, Sally has opened her home to women, leading small groups centered on loving God, loving others well, and faithfully serving through every season of life. Through countless conversations around kitchen tables and living rooms, she has witnessed the power of authentic community and the lasting impact of women encouraging one another in faith.

As the wife of Glen Mulready, Oklahoma's Insurance Commissioner and former member of the Oklahoma House of Representatives, Sally has had the opportunity to build meaningful relationships with women serving in leadership across government, business, ministry, and their local communities. These experiences have given her a unique perspective on the challenges and opportunities women face as they seek to balance faith, family, influence, and purpose.

Through Take Your Place, Sally's desire is simple: to gather women, strengthen connections, and inspire each person to step confidently into the place God has prepared for them.
